3

Animals used in circuses [...] never get to live freely. In zoos, animals often live in [...] cages that are hundreds of times smaller than their homes in the wild. In marine parks like SeaWorld, orcas are given what is basically a concrete bathtub to live in. And in TV and film, animals are taken from their mothers as babies and used as nothing more than props.

4

Animals are suffering right now for things like cosmetics, shampoo and conditioner, cleaners, and other household items. And that's not all – every year, millions of other animals are killed and shipped off to schools, where young people are given scalpels and told to cut up the animals' bodies as part of biology, anatomy, and other classes.

1

Chickens, pigs, fish, cows, and other animals who are raised for food value their lives just as much as you and I value ours. They are not nuggets, drumsticks, burgers, roasts, steaks, chops, bacon strips, sausage links, or hot dogs [...].

2

When you look at a cow, do you see a pair of shoes, a soccer ball, or a belt? What about when you see a sheep? You don't immediately think of a sweater or a pair of mittens, do you?

LET'S HAVE FUN

- Look and stick the Big Five.

Use Sticker 2.

ELEPHANT

They are the largest animals. They have big ears and use their trunks to drink water. People hunt them for their ivory tusks.

LEOPARD

They are solitary animals. They can run up to 58 km per hour and can climb and swim. They are active at night.

RHINOCEROS

They are anti-social. They have thick skin and a horn on their nose. They do not eat meat.

LION

They are social animals. Males have big manes and the females hunt. They like to hunt buffalos, giraffes and baby elephants at night.

BUFFALO

They are the most dangerous of the Big Five. They are covered with hair. They eat grass.
